

BIG MOOSE ORDER IS COMING TO KAUAI

The Loyal Order of Moose a social, beneficial and fraternal order which during the past few years has had phenomenal growth throughout the U. S. and Canada and which has grown to a membership of 500 in Honolulu in the last four weeks and which will surpass the 1500 mark before the 1st. of the year will be organized on this Island in the next few weeks. Through an interview with Organizer L. W. Long it was learned that Dept. Organizer Thos. F. Lund will come to this Island about Dec. 10th., to begin work here.

The Loyal order of Moose was organized in Louisville, Kentucky, April 12, 1888. It was founded by some of the most prominent business and professional men of that city. Dr. John H. Wilson was instrumental in the foundation of the order and to him is due the credit for the first Moose ritual. Some beautiful lectures of the original ritual are still in use. The growth of the lodge in its early history was slow, and not until the eighteenth annual convention at Crawfordsville, Indiana, in 1906, did the lodge assume a national growth. At that time James J. Davis of Pittsburgh was given the toga of supreme organizer, and since then its growth has been a rapid one.

It is estimated that 25,000 members of the order attended the twenty-second annual convention at Baltimore, held the last week in August. One thousand one hundred and fifty-four delegates attended the convention.

At this time there are 400,000 or more Moose in the United States and Canada divided among 850 lodges, without counting the new one in Honolulu and Moose lodges are now found in all of the important cities in North America.

The Loyal Order of Moose is purely a fraternal organization; it carries no insurance, but pays a benefit of seven dollars a week in sickness or accident, together with a funeral benefit; each subordinate lodge provides for free medical attention to members and their families. The social feature is its main object; at regular intervals dances and other entertainments are provided.

One of the important features of the Loyal Order of Moose, is the athletic features. To show their interest, and to give encouragement, the Supreme Lodge, at the last annual convention held in August at Detroit, Michigan, gave away $7500 in cash prizes to the Moose athletes. It is the aim of every chapter of this order to have in connection with their well equipped club rooms, a gymnasium, where young and old alike can participate in gymnastic sports, and where those interested in boxing and wrestling, or other sports, may prepare themselves, not only for the entertainment to be given at each regular meeting, but for the future.

"The Loyal Order of Moose does not attempt to develop one trained before any number of men, than are placed before the members of the Loyal Order of Moose. However there is just as much interest in the social and physical development of members as in their moral standing."

FARMERS ARE LESS

When the first census of the United States was taken 97 per cent of the people were farmers.

The census of 1910 shows that now less than 35 per cent of our people live on farms.

A hundred years ago there were very few tenants.

Tenantry was unnecessary, because there was plenty of land for everybody free for the asking.

Today there are nearly three million tenant farmers, who with their families make up fifteen millions homeless people, so far as any fixed abode is concerned.

A hundred years ago it cost little to build a house, for the house on the frontier was invariably made of logs or sod.

The neighbors turned out and helped the newcomer build his cabin, which cost practically nothing.

Today a house is built of $40 per thousand lumber and the cost of real estate is so high, where in the country or city, that only the well-to-do can build houses. All others must rent.

A hundred years ago the tools used by the farmer were simple and cheap.

Today it requires expensive machinery to operate a farm. This machinery and the tools which the farmer uses are made by trusts, chief of which are the steel and lumber trusts.
